

Nick and Brenda Aubin

Brenda and Nick Aubin were married July 2 in Nelson, BC, at the Cathedral. Nick says, “It was a beautiful and emotional ceremony, filled with friends and lots of family.” The weather cooperated for the most part, raining only for about 10 minutes between the ceremony and the photo shoot. “The remainder of the day was fittingly ‘Okanagan,’ ” he says, “Brenda was absolutely gorgeous in a beautiful, form-fitting beaded gown with narrow straps, long train, and a simple flowered hairband . . . with a sheer veil down her back. She looked like a tiny princess.”

On the evening prior to the wedding, the city of Nelson graciously celebrated the nuptials by providing a fantastic fireworks display after their Rehearsal Dinner, which was held on the escarpment at a B&B overlooking the lake. “Actually, they were for Canada Day, but don’t tell Brenda. I told her that cities all across the country participated and they plan to do it each year for our anniversary!” (That should help Nick remember the date.)

Trevor Todd and Scott and Jackie Simpson went whale watching off the San Juan Islands on September 18. They had an enjoyable afternoon, but failed to spot any whales!

Jim Robinson, Janice McMath, and Julie Mousseau in the hollow tree in the Redwood Forest

Janice McMath, Jim Robinson, and Guy and Julie Mousseau recently enjoyed a 12-day motorcycle trip down the Oregon Coast, through the Redwood Forest, across the Golden Gate Bridge to Fisherman’s Wharf, Monterey, and the magnificent Hearst

Castle. They cruised through Yosemite Park, Sonoma Pass, Silver City, Carson City, and Dry Falls, and crossed back into Canada at Osoyoos. “The scenery and ride were stupendous,” says Janice. “It was the experience of a lifetime!”
