

David Carpenter

Live Life to the Fullest with Eldercollege!

Eldercollege at Capilano College offers both intellectual and social opportunities.

Designed exclusively for people 55 plus, Eldercollege delivers an eclectic mix of courses for people who love learning for learning's sake. No exams, no pressure, and—best of all—no boredom!

Course offerings vary from term to term, but typically draw from subject areas as diverse as film, philosophy, and science to current events, winetasting, and art. Gourmet courses have included outings to restaurants; history courses have involved visits to museums. Two of our more popular recent offerings were “Great Empires: Gold, Glory, and God,” an exploration of empire throughout history, and “The Leading Edge,” a series of lectures dedicated to topical and often controversial issues.

In addition to intellectual stimulation, Eldercollege provides a friendly social setting where it's easy to meet people with similar interests.

In addition to intellectual stimulation, Eldercollege provides a friendly social setting where it's easy to meet people with similar interests. Apart from the lively classroom discussions and postlecture coffees, there is a Christmas party every year and an Open House each term.

People attend Eldercollege from all over the Lower Mainland. While the majority of classes are held at Capilano College at the North Shore campus or the campus on the Sunshine Coast, attendees from anywhere are welcome—from Richmond to Burnaby to Surrey.

On average, 300 to 400 students register each semester for 15 to 25 classes per term. Usually experts in their field, instructors are drawn from Capilano College faculty or the community at large. Some Eldercollege members with experience and expertise in our areas of interest teach many of our classes.

If you would like to join Eldercollege or just want more information, please contact Capilano College Continuing Education. ▲

David Carpenter is the Marketing and Communications Specialist at Capilano College, Continuing Education Division.
2055 Purcell Way
North Vancouver, BC V7J 3H5

Voice: 604 984-4901
www.capcollege.bc.ca/ce

